1. Introduction

This policy describes the aims of the LeDeR programme. The programme aims to improve care, reduce health inequalities and prevent premature death of people with a learning disability, and autistic people. It looks at information about the health and social care they received so that lessons can be learnt, and changes made.

2. Responsibilities

NHS Kernow Clinical Commissioning Group (NHS Kernow) is responsible for delivering these reviews and for making sure that actions are taken to improve services. These responsibilities will transfer to the NHS Cornwall and Isles of Scilly Integrated Care Board.

Reviewers

Reviewers will be independent from the service which provided care to the person. They will carry out initial and focussed reviews.

Senior review officer

The senior review officer (SenRO) will manage the review team and lead monthly support groups. They will help identify those initial reviews which should move on to more focussed reviews.

Administrator

The administrator will arrange LeDeR quality panel meetings and administer the LeDeR web platform. They will make sure that anonymised reviews are shared with those who were involved in the care of the individual.

Local area coordinator

The local area coordinator (LAC) will act as the point of contact for the NHS England and NHS Improvement (NHSEI) regional coordinator. They will assign reviews to the SenRO. They will promote LeDeR at local level across health and social care. They will also work with commissioning teams to develop a 3 year strategic plan which addresses the themes from reviews. The LAC will produce reports showing review activity, the identification of issues and general themes and the actions that are taking place to improve services. They will monitor and report local performance to NHSEI. They will make sure that appropriate governance arrangements are in place so that local organisations work together to achieve service improvements.

Assistant local area coordinator

The assistant local area coordinator will act as a point of contact in the absence of the LAC and support them in their duties.

Clinical lead

The clinical lead (NHS Kernow programme manager and clinical lead for learning disability) will give specialist advice to reviewers and the LeDeR quality panel. They will work with the LAC to develop a strategic plan which addresses the themes from reviews. They will be responsible for monitoring and evaluating that strategic plan in line with the established commissioning cycle.

Senior responsible officer

This executive lead is responsible for the delivery and assurance of the LeDeR programme. They will ensure that the challenges faced by people from black, Asian and minority ethnic communities are considered and addressed as part of the programme.

LeDeR quality panel

The panel will consider all focussed reviews, particularly their quality, the learning gained from them, and good practice. The panel will agree on actions to be taken as a result of focussed reviews.

Monthly reviewer support group

This group will support reviewers, who in the course of their work will be exposed to distressing information.

Assurance groups

The NHS Kernow quality assurance meeting will keep an overview of actions to be completed by providers. Unresolved concerns about actions which are not completed can be escalated to the NHS Kernow quality committee.

3. Policy

LeDeR aims to improve local services for people with a learning disability (aged 4 years and over), and autistic people (adults). The programme values the contribution of people with lived experience, and this will be reflected in our procedures.

Reviews will be conducted by independent reviewers with appropriate supervision and administrative support. All reviews should be completed within 6 months of them being notified on the LeDeR web platform unless statutory processes prevent that being possible. This means that good practice or problems can be shared and addressed as soon as possible.

A LeDeR review is not a mortality review. It does not restrict itself to the last episode of care before the person's death. Instead, it looks at key episodes of health and social care the person received that may have been relevant to their overall health outcomes. LeDeR reviews take account of any mortality review that may have taken place following a person's death.

LeDeR reviews are not investigations or part of a complaints process. Any serious concerns about the quality of care should be raised with the provider of that service directly or with the Care Quality Commission (CQC).

The key principles of communication, cooperation and independence will be upheld when working alongside other investigation or review processes.

This policy should also be read alongside the NHSEI policy.

4. Procedure

Notifications to the programme

Anyone can notify a death to the LeDeR programme via the website.

Assigning a review

After NHS Kernow is notified, the SenRO will allocate each case to a reviewer.

Initial review

The reviewer will carry out an initial review using the standard assessment to guide them through the process. This initial review will include:

1. If possible, a guided conversation with or contribution from a family member or someone close to the person who died.
2. A detailed conversation with the GP or a review of the GP records.
3. A conversation with at least 1 other person involved in the care of the individual who died. For example, this might be with the person who carried out the mortality review in the hospital, or another family member who wants to speak to the reviewer about the care their loved one received.

Outcome of the initial review

The reviewer decides whether a focused review is required. The SenRO will review the justification for this and confirm whether it should remain as an initial review or move to a focused review. They will seek specialist advice where appropriate, including that of a general practitioner.

In some cases, even though a focused review is not required, there may be immediate actions for a specific individual or team within the health and care system which need to be put in place. These will be forwarded to the NHS Kernow quality assurance meeting for implementation by providers. The SenRO will record decisions on the LeDeR web platform and action log. Redacted reviews will be shared with all those who were involved in the care of the individual. This will include family or carers unless they prefer not.

Focused review

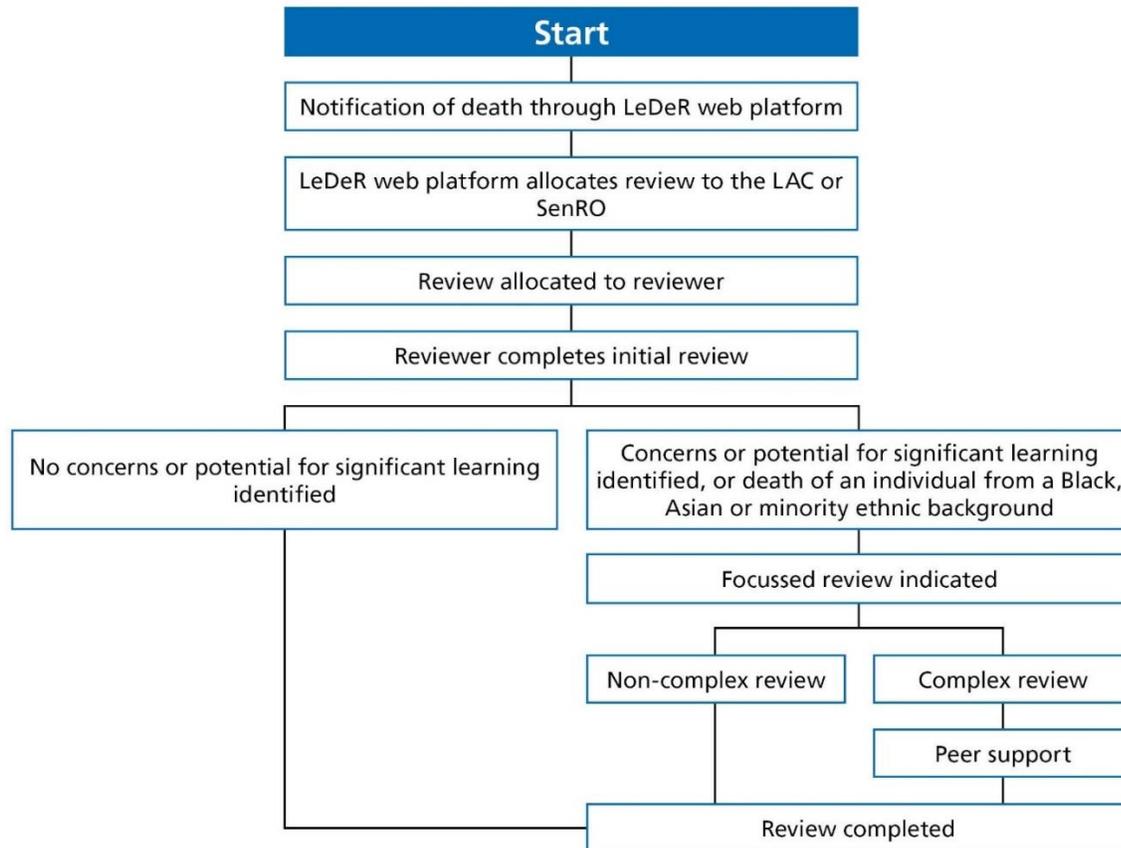

A focused review will be carried out:

1. If the person is from a black, Asian or minority ethnic background.
2. If there is significant learning to be gained.
3. If there are concerns about the quality of care provided to the person by 1 or more providers, or there is evidence of a lack of integrated or coordinated care.
4. If a family member asks for a focused review to be completed.
5. In the years 2021 to 2023, all deaths of adults who have a diagnosis of autism but who do not have a learning disability.

A focused review will be completed using the standard assessment process. Reviewers may work with the SenRO and the wider team of reviewers for additional expertise and support. The SenRO may carry out particularly complex reviews.

Reviewers will need to consider whether any other process, such as referral to safeguarding, provider complaints process or a serious incident investigation, should be conducted alongside or in place of a LeDeR review. LeDeR is a service improvement programme rather than a formal investigation process. This should be made clear to family members.

LeDeR review process

Consideration by the LeDeR quality and governance panel

Once completed and agreed by the SenRO, the focussed review will be considered by the LeDeR quality panel. Membership will include the following, with a minimum of the LAC, SenRO, and one clinical lead for quoracy:

- local area contact
- senior review officer
- reviewer and LeDeR administrator
- representatives of people with lived experience, their families or carers
- NHS Kernow, clinical lead
- Royal Cornwall Hospitals NHS Trust clinical lead
- Cornwall Partnership NHS Foundation Trust clinical lead
- NHS Kernow, strategic lead nurse for general practice nursing
- representative from Cornwall Council social care and from public health
- a named lead with responsibility for black, Asian and minority ethnic inequalities

The panel will consider the:

(LeDeR) programme policy and procedure | Page 8

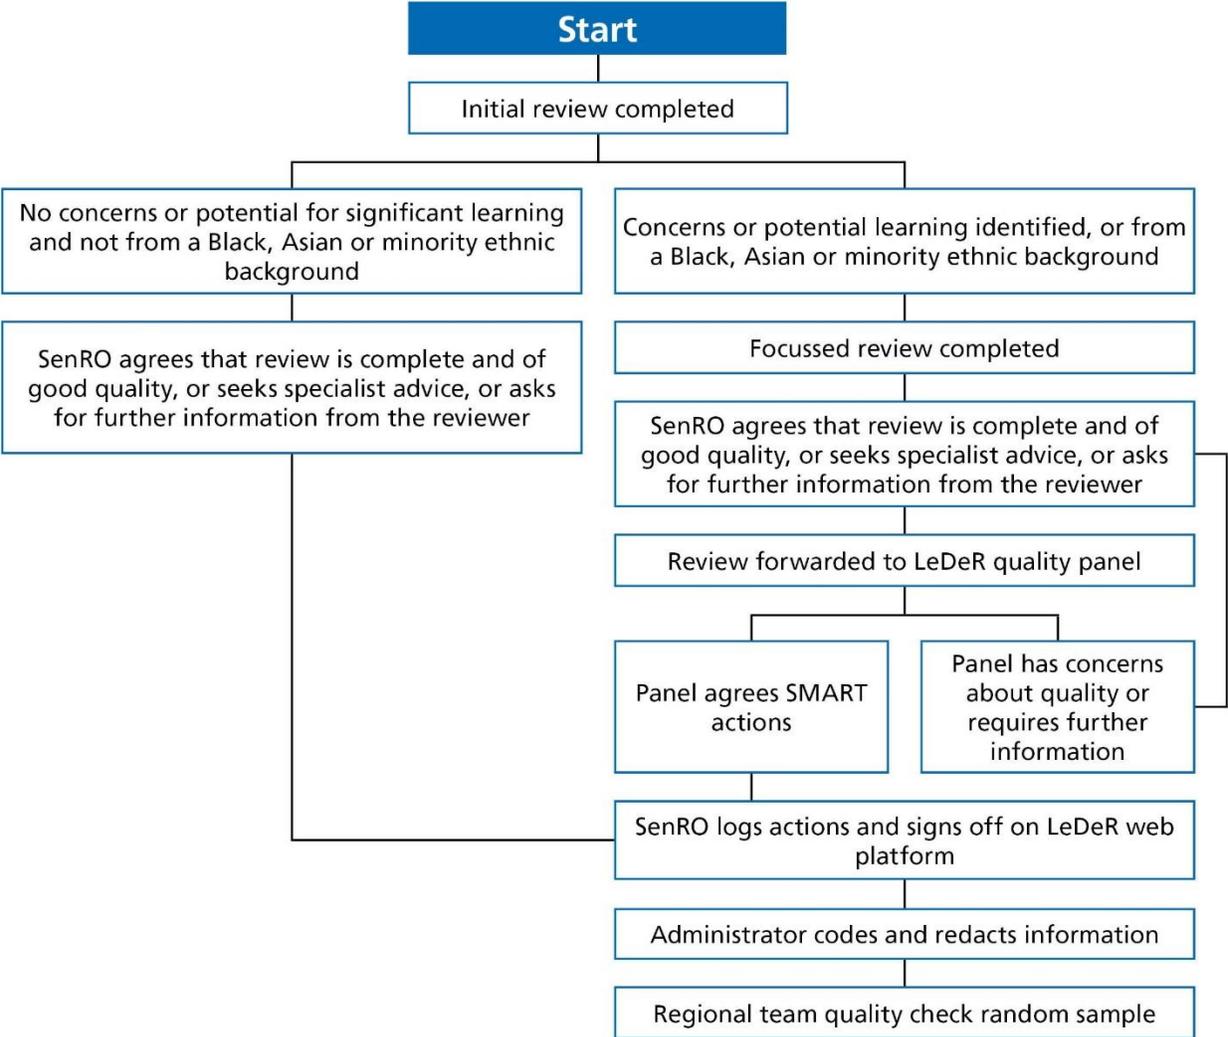

- quality of the review
- learning gained from the review
- good practice
- any actions to be taken forward

Actions agreed at the panel will be forwarded to the NHS Kernow quality assurance meeting for provider implementation and entered onto the action log and LeDeR web platform.

The panel will meet every month, although this may vary according to demand.

Any conflict of interest will be declared before consideration of a case and recorded on the LeDeR web platform.

LeDeR quality process

5. Governance

We will know that the LeDeR programme is effective when we identify:

- reduced recurrent themes found in LeDeR reviews
- reduced levels of concern and areas for improvement in reviews
- reduced frequency of deaths that were potentially avoidable
- evidence of service improvements

We expect the LeDeR programme to deliver:

- a positive experience of the LeDeR process for bereaved families
- decreasing numbers of preventable deaths
- greater use of reasonable adjustments in health and care services
- better outcomes for people as a result of local service improvement projects
- increased awareness of the main causes of death
- improved data about the lives and deaths of autistic people

The LeDeR quality panel reports to the NHS Kernow quality assurance meeting (QAM), which itself reports into the quality committee (QC). In addition, reports are also made to NHSEI. The schedule of reporting is as follows:

- monthly report against key performance indicators to the quality and governance panel and to QAM
- quarterly report on progress against service improvement actions report to the quality and governance panel QAM, QC (by exception), the learning disabilities programme board and NHSEI
- quarterly report on key milestones to the quality and governance panel QAM, QC (by exception), the learning disabilities programme board and NHSEI
- annual report to the quality and governance panel QAM, QC, the learning disabilities programme board and NHSEI

Appendix 1: Equality impact assessment

An equality impact assessment is used to establish how a policy or similar document may impact on individuals, communities, or equality groups to identify and minimise or remove any disproportionate impact. A full impact assessment should be undertaken for policies, strategies, procedures, or projects which are anticipated to have an impact on members of the public. Human rights values

How have the core human rights values of fairness, respect, equality, dignity, and autonomy been considered in the formulation of this policy, service, or strategy?

Through improvement of health outcomes which impact on these values.

Which of the human rights articles does this document impact?

- To life
- Not to be tortured or treated in an inhuman or degrading way
- To liberty and security
- To a fair trial
- To respect for home and family life, and correspondence
- To freedom of thought, conscience, and religion
- To freedom of expression
- To freedom of assembly and association
- To marry and found a family
- Not to be discriminated against in relation to the enjoyment of any of the rights contained in the European Convention
- To peaceful enjoyment of possessions

What existing evidence (either presumed or otherwise) do you have for this?

The improvement of health outcomes supports these articles.

How will you ensure that those responsible for implementing the policy are aware of the human rights implications and equipped to deal with them?

They will follow the procedures.

Public Sector Value Act 2020

NHS Kernow is committed and obliged to fulfil the requirements of the Public Sector Social Value Act 2012. This Act requires the organisations to consider how services commissioned or procured might improve the economic, social, and environmental wellbeing of an area.

Please describe how this will support and contribute to the local system, wider system, and community.

This is a service improvement programme.
